Welcome to the Legend Oaks Team!

We are excited to announce the addition of two new team members to Legend Oaks!

Cassie Somers is our new Marketing Assistant at Legend Oaks. Cassie will assist the Membership, Dining, Golf and Business Department Heads with day to day operations as well as assume full responsibility for all marketing and media for the club, including our monthly newsletters, website management and event coordination.

Since joining the team in January, Cassie has been focused on understanding the procedures of each business area and stepping in when needed. During these challenging times, she has been instrumental in communicating with our members and guests concerning our policies with regards to COVID 19 with every new state mandate.

Cassie graduated from Millikin University in Decatur, IL with a degree in Sports Management with a minor Digital Media Marketing. Cassie enjoys all sports and played basketball in college. After graduation she worked at her mother's Day Care business until she decided she no longer liked the cold and snow. She moved to North Charleston, SC with her sister in late 2019 and is enjoying the warm weather and exploring the Charleston area.

Ryan Singletary is our new Chef at Legend Oaks Bistro One18. Ryan is responsible for kitchen operations supporting our daily, event and catering businesses along with maintaining recipes, ordering food/supplies and introducing new menu items and daily specials.

Ryan has an Associate Degree in Culinary Arts from the Culinary Institute of Charleston. He started his culinary career locally at Slightly North of Broad before accepting a position as Sous Chef at Halls Chophouse in Columbia, SC, where he was an integral part of their menu development team.

Ryan moved to Indaco where he expanded his Italian cuisine culinary skills. In June, Ryan accepted the position at Legend Oaks and has worked to become familiar with the many different palates of our members and guests.

Ryan grew up in Sumter, SC in an Air Force Family. His love of cooking began at the age of two and he hasn't stopped since! When not in the kitchen, Ryan enjoys hunting, fishing, skeet shooting and playing with his two cats, Biscuit and Bellini. His view of the golf course out the kitchen window has pushed him to rediscover his golf game!

Please join us in giving Cassie and Ryan a warm welcome!

TIPS FROM THE PRO!

Stage Fright

So what's the big deal?? You come out to tennis practice once a week and you play like a champ. You have fun and make all the shots that you expect to make for a player at your level. You talk about strategy and how you will execute the plan at tomorrow's match against a team of your peers.

You arrive at the courts the next morning and you're ready to execute the plan. The warm-up with the opponents is just as effortless as the practice the day before. You have nice conversation with your partner and opponents and all is great. Then come those words that signal the change that knocks the earth off its axis, "Let's play."

Some supernatural phenomenon increases your racquet weight an additional two pounds, and you bounce your first serve into the net. You double fault which you probably haven't done all week. Your nice comfortable forehands and backhands have all become semi-lobs and are barely clearing the net. You are nervous, have shortness of breath, and your legs and arms become rubbery. You have all of a sudden been transported to an alternate universe, a place that appears similar to that location where you have practiced for three straight days but feels like another world. You have arrived in the "Stage Fright Zone."

Moving from the practice court to a league or tournament match is no different from studying your lines for a theatrical performance and then walking out in front of strangers for the first time. You have forever been playing singles and doubles matches with your friends. We have all felt this performance anxiety at one time or another, but because you are constantly practicing on the tennis court you feel your performance should be at a higher level. The question that we all ask ourselves when this happens is, "how do we successfully make the transition from the practice session to league or tournament match?"

The answer to this question is not so complex that you have to travel to some eastern Tibetan Monastery to figure out the meaning of life on the tennis court. We do however, have to overcome this sense of frustration rather quickly because we don't like the answer that we "lack competitive experience."

One very simple solution is to immerse oneself in competitive play which, with each match, has positive or negative consequences. Your goal as a "winning" tennis player should be to play as many competitive matches as possible. This is not to say that you should reduce the practice time playing sets or matches. It does mean however, that you should play as many meaningful matches as possible.

Legend Oaks Fall USTA Registration Underway

In the past Legend Oaks has developed a reputation for being one of the most active clubs in the Lowcountry in USTA League play. Teams are forming now to participate this Fall in all levels. There will be no State, Sectional, or National Championships for the Fall League. It will be a great opportunity to get out into a competitive but fun environment to knock off some COVID rust and enjoy a safe activity. You will all be surprised by your match toughness improvement by playing singles or doubles matches each week.

With this match-play experience your goal will be to arrive next Spring on the court confident and ready to deliver an award-winning performance!

You must stay off the course and cart paths for your own safety. Being hit with a golf ball can cause severe injury.

Multiple sightings of children and teenagers out playing on the course and around the ponds, including playing with baby alligators, have been reported. This is extremely dangerous and against the law. If you see this please call the police non-emergency number.
